Funding Proposals

Words Worth Reading Ltd help both healthcare and non-healthcare organizations secure funding opportunities, including transformation funds, grants, lottery funds and charitable funds.

Competition for funding is always significant; particularly for small companies and organizations who rely on such funding to support their own ability to grow and develop services, and indeed to deliver the best possible care to service users. A robust and targeted proposal is crucial to the successful attainment of funds.

We generally work with small, independent healthcare providers, social care providers and members of the voluntary sector, writing their funding proposals for them.

What are the key benefits of using this service?

- As a creative organization, we bring presentation and design awareness to all funding proposals.
- Our expertise in health and social care means we have the detailed contextual knowledge required for responding to operational strategy, financial questions, and proposed process evaluation.
