AUGUST 2011 ISSUE 32

Hi, and welcome to the August edition of the Words Worth Reading Ltd newsletter. Over the last few days it has finally felt like summer, although this could all change by tomorrow! So why not take a moment to relax in the sun and read this month's newsletter?

Start your job search now!

From the influx of job seeker submissions that we've seen in our office over the last few weeks it would seem that a lot of you are viewing the summer as a good time to reflect on your career and take those first steps towards a new job and a new challenge. And with the academic year now complete, it's the perfect time for students to be applying for jobs if you haven't done so already. But if you've never applied for a job or it's been a while since you've been in the job seeking market then the whole process can seem a bit daunting. If this is the case for you then you may benefit from our CV editing or writing service, our application form service and / or our cover letter writing service. Click here to read some of the great feedback from our previous job seeker clients.

Students, plan ahead!

For those students that have just completed a hard year's graft, you need to start thinking about how you can get the most out of the next academic year. Why not sign up to our student bundle deal? This package offers a simple and affordable way to get an expert critique and proofread of all of your essays throughout the year. Letting us carry out that all important proofread will leave you with more free time to appreciate the other elements of University life!

What makes books

"I find television very educating. Every time somebody turns on the set, I go into the other room and read a book." - Groucho Marx

In other news...

- Publishing success is filling the Words Worth Reading office this week; Jo Draper has had her article on writing retreats published in the latest edition of Self Publishing Magazine and Samantha Pearce's latest book Self Publishing: The Essential Guide will be out in the Autumn, published by Need2Know Books. Keep an eye out for these insightful reads.

- CQC GP Consultation now closed! The Department of Health's consultation to decide on whether to change the timings of the registration of GP practices from April 2012 to April 2013 has now closed.

GPs across the country are awaiting the outcome of the consultation. We'll report any news on this story via our blog which can be found at: www.wordsworthreading.blogspot.com
